REARED IN A STREET-CAR.

Three-Year-Old Tot, the Boss Girl of the Fulton Avenue Line.

[New York Sun.]

A little girl lay curled up in the rear corner of a Fulton avenue car, fast asleep. She had on a pink apron, with a white dress underneath, that came almost down to her shoes all stubbed out at the toes. One of her fat hands lay on her bright face, while the other wandered dreamily toward a fly that was walking up and down her nose.

The conductor turned down the lamp above the baby's head, and shooed away the fly. When any body looked admiringly at the baby he looked as proud as though he were up her place, and when a colored woman got in and put a very black baby, also asleep, in the other corner, the conductor went in and told her all about the white baby.

"That's my girl," said he, "and she won't be three years old for over a month."

The colored woman looked surprised, as though she thought the baby must be at least 10 years old.

"Yes," the conductor went on, "that's my girl, and she's the boss girl of the Fulton line. That's what the boys call her, and she deserves it. Gentlemen," turning to the solitary young man in the car, "I don't want to be egotistical, but if any one thinks he can show a girl of the same age that can talk more and cry less, or wields any more than that girl, I've got money to bet with him. She's traveled over this road ever since she was weaned, and many's the hour she's lain there with her bottle empty beside, and not cried once when there were, maybe, five other babies yelling at the top of their lungs. You see, her mother's busy during the day, and I can just as well keep her with me as not. She stays up home during the rush, and the rest of the time she's here with me. I and the rest of the boys have taught her pretty much all she knows, and she knows a lot. There ain't hardly a horse on the line but she can call by name, and if she had the strength to hold the reins she'd drive better than half the men. Her name's Mary. We call her Tot, and she calls herself May Blossom. When some one tells me to let 'em off at some street clear down at the other end of the line I just say: 'Tot, you remind me such a street for me,' and she'll repeat it to herself half aloud until we get there, and never forget it. No, she wasn't born here; she was born down east. You hardly ever see such girls around these parts."

Then the two babies woke up. They were introduced to each other, and got on together well until the black baby got off at the end of the line. Then Tot went to sleep again, and started down on her last trip, while her father stood in the doorway and kept away the flies.

Romance of a Poor Young Man.

[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

A good many years ago a youngish man kept a grocery store in Troy, N. Y., and built up a reputation in a short time for shrewdness, meanness and enterprise. He ran his store in a very lively manner, and devised many schemes to draw custom which are common now, but were new and catching then. A couple of squares away and around a corner from the store lived a pretty little rosy-cheeked girl, with large gray eyes and brown hair, a nimble wit and saucy tongue, and a very independent spirit. The grocery man fell in love with the girl, and for several years courted her diligently in spite of snubs and scornful sayings. He declared that the girl should marry him, and she said she would see the green grass and the little daisies growing over him before such a thing should happen. The girl's parents sided more or less with the grocer, and told the girl her lover would some day be very rich and a great man. The result was that the girl finally married a poor young clerk, who became a well-to-do merchant in New York, and he and his wife lead the happiest of lives in their charming home out Harlem way. Sometimes an ill, haggard, weary-looking man drives through the park, and when he sees the merchant and his wife he flushes and bows stiffly, and then leans back in his superb carriage, looking more haggard and more tired than before. If somebody should notice this meeting and should ask a New Yorker who the people were he would say that the old man in the splendid carriage was Russell Sage, and would probably add that the lady and gentleman were unknown to him.

Finding Out If It Was Alive.

[Boston Globe.]

"Have you had any experience in operating circular saws?" inquired the proprietor of a sawing and turning shop of an applicant for employment.

Upon giving an affirmative answer the man was engaged and set to work. Half an hour later the employer bethought himself to see how his new hand was doing, and found him gazing at the bleeding stump of the forefinger of his right hand.

"How did you do that?" inquired the boss.

"How did I do it? Well, I was wondering if that thing was moving," he said, pointing to the circular saw, "and I put my finger down, just like that. Holy Moses! There goes the other one," he shrieked, as the index finger of the left hand became a victim of his illustration.

"Well, are you satisfied that the thing is alive?" asked the proprietor of the saw.

A Bug Story.

[Alsoon (Ga.) Telegraph.]

The other night one of these snapper-bugs flew into the open window and lit on the ear of a gentleman who was asleep. The bug entered the ear and commenced his snapping and tearing at the delicate lining of the ear with its claws. The snapping sounded like the beating of a thousand sledge-hammers, and the clawing caused almost insufferable pain. The bug was too far in to be pulled out by the fingers, and the gentleman rose as quickly as he could and his wife tried in vain to get it out with a needle and a hair-pin. At last he resolved to go to a doctor, and while dressing himself his wife happened to think of the attraction light had for bugs and moths. She placed the light near the ear, and in less than half a minute the bug crawled out backward with the blood oozing from the ear. Mr. John de Borde was the gentleman, and is still suffering from the injuries inflicted by the bug.

Venerable Printers.

[Chicago Times.]

It is a little startling to read that the manager of The Hartford Courant for the quarter of a century previous to 1880, died recently, His name was Henry Goodwin, and his age 91. His father was the publisher of The Courant before him, and also a member of the firm that published hundreds of thousands of Noah Webster's spelling-books. Father and son were practical printers, and when his son was managing the even then venerable Courant, which another son was editing, the father, dressed in knee-breeches, and the continental coat and vest, set type in the office for recreation.

[Foreign Notes.]

GROSS IGNORANCE.

Notwithstanding that much has been written about Manitoba and the Northwest the greatest ignorance yet prevails in many quarters regarding that great country. In Victoria many who know nothing of our vast inheritance east of the mountains seldom loose an opportunity to decry a land they have not seen, and of whose resources and capabilities they are in Egyptian darkness. Such a class are neither patriotic nor worthy the protection of the government under whose flag they are only too willing to accept shelter. The development and success of the Northwest, as well as eastern British Columbia is, of prime importance to this city. As these districts flourish and increase in wealth and population so will Victoria expand her borders and stretch her arms to gather in trade. It is to be hoped those who are claiming a knowledge will take a hint and read up, or personally visit, the great land of promise adjoining our own Province We are convinced that then much of the ignorance under which they are now labouring would be dispelled.

What can be thought of a serial like All the Year Round giving some of the following absurdities in reference to the Manitoba weather:

"When I have been ironing the top of a pocket handkerchief, the lower part would freeze on to the table, which was close by a roaring wood fire."

"I was surprised when I first found the mustard freeze in my mustard-pot, which stood a foot from the kitchen stove-pipe and two feet above the stove, where there was a blazing fire all day and every day through the winter.

"Occasionally, when one is frozen and far from help, the part frozen, if an extremity, will snap off. Last year a man living about thirty miles from us was told that his ear was frozen; he put up his hand to feel, and the ear dropped off in his hand."

As well might the writer have stated that they have sleighing in July and August.

The Nova Scotia newspapers, which are continually warning their readers not to migrate to the Northwest and its rigorous climate are now enjoying five inches of snow with heavy frost. A just retribution.

Contrast the opinions expressed by men of reputation, such as Sir Richard Temple and others of the British Scientists, with those of our own would-be local solons. In reply to an address at Calgary he said:

You have mentioned the wonderful work of nature in yonder peaks, but we think more wonderful still is the enterprise, energy and civilization that has, in a marvellously short time, spread over this part of the country. We have seen prairie turned into paradise. Everywhere we have been we met with the sturdy work of British hands. We have been much struck with the farming and produce. We have seen land marked out in lots, the fields scratched, then plowed. We have seen the rich harvest standing, seen it reaped by your matchless agricultural machinery. We have seen the fine cattle in your ranches, and admire the excellent breed of horses there, and now we see the grand mountain tops of the Rockies. We congratulate you on your rich country, on the development already accomplished, and especially on the produce of the land. Your towns have struck us a wonders.

In Winnipeg the same gentleman delivered a lecture on the Northwest, before an immense audience in the Grand Opera House on his return from the mountains. He referred to the remarkable contrast presented, the beautiful country until recently called "The Lone Land," now being considered a land of promise. It was but a very few years since the places which were now the haunts of civilization had been the runs and wallowing places of bands of buffalos. The country was vast. The popular idea in England now was that the Northwest of Canada could sustain a population of 100,000,000 of Anglo-Saxons. Indeed, considering the cultivable area of the Northwest, including both the Northwest Provinces and Manitoba, which could hardly be less than a million square miles, and reckoning a population of 100 to the square mile, which was not a high average, the result would be a total population of 100,000,000. This vast area might fairly be compared with some of the neighboring States, fully equal in size and area to that of Dakota, Idaho, Minnesota and Washington, which were constituting a land of promise to our American kinsmen.

A MARKED CONTRAST.

It may be interesting to our readers to contrast the expenditures of the Mackenzie and Macdonald administrations during the several years given below. We hear politicians continually yelping about "extravagance" and "economy." Figures, however, speak for themselves. Here is the annual expenditure under five years of Reform "extravagance;"

1873-4	$23,216,825
1874-5	22,712,071
1875-6	24,468,373
1876-7	23,519,303
1877-8	23,508,158
Total	$118,510,218

Contrast with the above the "economy" of the present government at Ottawa:

1878-79	$24,455,381
1879-80	24,850,634
1880-81	25,502,334
1881-82	27,067,168
1882-83	28,732,157
Total	$130,605,829

Sir Leonard stated that $22,500,000 was amply sufficient for annual expenditure, and he proposed to carry on the public service with that amount. Last year, under his management, it required over fifty per cent. more than that sum to govern the Dominion. Sir John said he did not propose to "increase the tariff," that is to add to taxation, it was only to be "readjusted." Last year the tariff duties exceeded the amount levied by the Cartwright tariff by nearly $10,000,000. Sir Charles Tupper and Cartwright had no right to have a surplus. The Government of which he has been a member has rolled up surpluses amounting to $17,000,000.

Such are some of the glaring inconsistencies of our politicians. It has been stated that a party out of office, and the same party in office, are an entirely different set of individuals. In the one case they are irresponsible, which on the other they have to suit their policy to the wants of the country.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The Portland Oregonian writing on the subject of the electric light says:

The electric light is as yet largely an experiment. Its conditions and possibilities are by no means fully understood. Consequently there yet remains an element of uncertainty in it. Its behavior is often apparently capricious, due of course to imperfect knowledge of all the conditions of its production and diffusion. One thing, however, remains certain, to-wit, the light is nowhere found to be economical. On the contrary, it is costly, and becomes more costly as efforts are made to subdivide great electrical currents for the purpose of producing many small lights. For this reason alone it cannot take the place of gas for the general purposes of illumination. As heretofore stated, it is excellent for lighting parks and other open areas, but it is not good for street lighting because burners enough cannot be kept, without excessive cost, to light the streets in all directions. Deep shadows along the streets, especially under large buildings, can be avoided only by lights on the corners of every street, and for this purpose gas is the most useful as well as the most economical agent.

The proposition now before the Common Council of this city ought not to be entertained for a moment. Even if it would supply sufficient light the city could not afford it. High as the price of gas has hitherto been here, gaslight is yet the cheaper of the two; and for the reasons stated above it is the best. Besides, a considerable reduction of the price of gas cannot be far in the future. Again, as the electric masts will by no means furnish light enough, the contract now proposed would be only a beginning. To be just to all parts of the city, the Common Council would be compelled to contract for many more lights, and the cost of illumination would go far beyond the city's power to pay.

At present the city is tolerably lighted, and as new lights are desired in different localities they may be supplied at comparatively small cost. To set up a lamp-post at any street corner calls for but a few dollars. It must be remembered, too, that Portland is not rich enough to have all the ornamental displays of a great city, and the electric light, except for plazas, squares, or other wide and open places, where it is useful as well as ornamental, does not answer the purpose gas readily subserves. Taxes are high and times are hard. Economy must be the watchword of the city as well as of the citizens. Taxpayers cannot afford, especially in these times, any unnecessary expenditure of public money, or any expenditure whatever beyond urgent needs.

Then, too, the length of time which the proposed contract is to cover, is highly objectionable. The city should not be bound for fifteen years, not for five years, and especially it should not be bound to any experiment. We are told that a remonstrance against the proposed contract is to be prepared and addressed to the Common Council. We believe that nine-tenths of the taxpayers of the city will sign it if they have opportunity. It will be a good thing to circulate this remonstrance and let the Common Council know what citizens think about the proposition. That body certainly would be glad to know the mind of the people upon so important a question.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Company has decided to carry back the remainder of the Chinese to China, and not contest the law, as it was first believed they would.

ANOTHER ELOPEMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—The elopement mania has spread to this coast. On Tuesday evening, Kittie Graham, the 13-year-old daughter of John Graham, commission merchant, eloped with Harry E. Sanford, a married man, aged 30. A marriage, but which Sanford to-day says was only a mock marriage, was performed the day following the elopement. Graham succeeded is finding out where his daughter was staying. She recounted to him all the circumstances, and the father afterwards had Sanford arrested on a charge of bigamy. It is considered doubtful if the charge of bigamy can be sustained, as no legal marriage took place. Search is being made for the man who officiated at the ceremony.

FORGING A PEDIGREE.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Joseph Raised, of Waukegan, Ill., appeared before the United States Court and gave bail to appear for examination on the question of extradition, for forgery. It appears that the application is made by the Clydesdale Association of Scotland, charging that Raised purchased, in that country, a lot of Clydesdale horses of inferior breeding, and forged pedigrees containing more valuable strains of blood, and sold them in this country to the detriment of the horse interests. The application was presented to the State Department at Washington through the British Minister, and the Government officers were directed to arrest Raised and deliver him to the British Vice-Consul at Philadelphia, in order to avoid extradition if possible. Raised surrendered himself.

DISEASED ANIMALS.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 26.—Secretary Edge and Dr. Bridge to-day again visited the farm of Wm. Dalton, Westhaven township, and examined his herd which has been afflicted with pleuro-pneumonia. The visit resulted in their ordering the herd to be killed, ten animals in number, thereby making in all seventeen killed.

THE PLAGUE.

NAPLES, Sept. 25.—Since the outbreak of cholera in this city there has been 10,203 cases and 5,385 deaths.

THE LOST GUNBOAT.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The British man-of-war Valiant which was sent to Tory Islands to learn details of the wreck of the gunboat Wasp and render all assistance possible has brought the survivors of the disaster away from the lighthouse where they were landed when rescued from the water.

CHOLERA INCREASING.

GENOA, Sept. 25.—Cholera is increasing to an alarming extent in this city. Sixty-eight new cases are reported to-day.

CANADIAN.

MEETING OF LABORERS.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 25.—A great labor demonstration and mass meeting will be held here October 1st. Workmen from all parts of the Province will take part. Resolutions will be offered demanding the stoppage of Chinese immigration and the expulsion of all Chinamen who refuse to accept civilization and citizenships and an immediate recall of the immigration agents in Europe and elsewhere, and the expenditure of the money thus saved on public works so as to give Canadians employment in their own country.

SINGLE SCULL RACE.

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—Richard K. Fox, of New York, writes to the Mail signifying his willingness to give a purse of $5000 for a single scull race of five miles with turn, to be competed for by Edward Hanlan, Wm. Beach and John Teemer, and in addition a championship trophy of the value of $2500 to be known as the Police Gazette cup.

A Citizen on the Chinese Commission.

The following letter appears in the Toronto Globe of the 18th inst:

Sir:—The Chinese Commission intended as a stop to nullify trades' unions east as well as toilers west, was treated with derision, and advised to return to the wily tricksters who created it. A resident population of 18,000 adult Chinese, to 25,000 whites, men, women and children, is too disproportionate to require investigation, and hundreds of intelligent and able-bodied Canadians who could find no resting-place among us, can furnish the eastern press with sufficient corroborative evidence to curse the policy which is enriching a few manufacturers and merchants, and pauperising labor. The pernicious effects of Chinese labor in competition with white labor has already been demonstrated in Australia and California and driven the people affected almost to the verge of rebellion, which the Governments of Great Britain and the United States deemed it prudent to recognize. And yet in the face of such evidence, and to suit an alien contractor, who has no more interest in the country than a baboon has in prohibition, the Province was flooded with the class referred to, despite solemn protests and past precedents. The Hon. Mr. Chapleau may be a good man in his own country, but the Government displayed both bad taste and judgement when they associated him with the fulsome and sycophantic attainments of Mr. N. F. Davin, who left other and more unfavorable impressions behind him. The character of a report which required the pageantry of a special car to obtain, will be looked for with a degree of curiosity not hitherto evoked by the most extreme burlesque absurdities. It is to be hoped that workingmen east, instead of following the selfish practice of humbly begging, your petitioners ever pray, etc., will demand from those representing them as servants that common justice will be done to their interests, or plump solidly against them, through the length and breadth of the Dominion.

Canned Salmon.

A letter from Messrs. H. C. Beeton and E. C. Jones, states that in the National Training School for Cooking, South Kensington, England, under the superintendence of Mrs. Edith Clarke, lectures, with demonstrations as to the utility of canned salmon as an article of food, are given each week. The salmon is cooked and served in three different ways—mayonnise, croquette and scallop. A notice in some of the papers says that already there is exported annually from British Columbia canned salmon to the extent of 10,000,000 lbs, valued at about £200,000 sterling, and the trade is largely on the increase. The pack of the Pacific coast, the produce of all the rivers from Alaska in the north to the Sacramento river in the south, makes the to total output annually in round figures 1,000,000 cases, each containing 48 lbs. Of the above total Great Britain takes about 250,000 cases, the United States 300,000 cases, and Canada and Australia 70,000.

And Still Another Elopement.

Ottawa is bound to be in fashion. New York and San Francisco has had their sensational elopements. Now it is Ottawa's turn. It is rumored that a son of Hon. John Carling, Postmaster-General, has eloped with the daughter of a prominent lumberman in that city, both minors. He is a gay fellow of 17, and the object of his adoration cannot be more than 16. They kept company upwards of a year with the consent of their parents, who only objected to the marriage owing to the tender years of the parties. The young hearts could not beat happily, being longer separated, and consequently they took flight, it is said, to Boston on Saturday, where the young lady has a sister, where they were to be united in marriage. A society belle says the couple got married in July, and the fact coming to the ears of the parents, they merely skipped to the States to avoid unpleasantness springing up with regard to the affair.

Willow Point Mines.

The steamer Buzo left Nanaimo on Tuesday morning with Mr. Harry Bolton (formerly overman of the Chase river mine), James Mackey and several others for Campbell river, near Willow point, for the purpose of opening up a mine on the property belonging to Mr. Dupont and others. The Free Press says the seam about to be opened is situated five or six miles from the coast and near Campbell river. The ground has been prospected and several fine outcrops have been discovered. It is now the intention of the original owners, with whom are associated several San Francisco capitalists, to sink into the seam and thoroughly test it. If it proves satisfactory a railway and shipping facilities will be at once constructed. Willow point is about ninety miles north of Nanaimo and thirty miles above Comox.

Silver Mining News.

Reports just received from the north shore of Lake Superior stated that Oliver Darmars, the original discoverer of the Rabbit Mountain Mine, has made another discovery of silver which is said to be equal to his first great find. He is on the spot now blasting out the silver, and has some marvelous specimens of argentill. The Huronian gold and silver mine has made another shipment of bullion from the amalgamated plates of their mills. The company have a large stock of gold and silver concentrated at the mine awaiting shipment. This company intend making a large addition to their works and force this fall. The Rabbit Mountain Silver Mine is being turned into a joint stock company. The nine mine on 30 T. shows up rich in zinc blende and now promises to be one of the best mines of the Northwest. The Hibbard and Malatte mines have changed hands, Mr. A J. McDougall is the purchaser.

Temperance Convention.

The temperance people of Victoria, represented by the Christian Women's Temperance Union, Blue Ribbon Club, and Good Templars, met in convention in the basement of the Methodist Church, last evening. Delegates were present from New Westminster, Nanaimo, Chilliwhack and other parts of the Province. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Crossby, of Port Simpson, Hon. John Robson and Mr. Shakespeare, M. P. A committee consisting of Messrs. Gray, Halfpenny, Spencer, McMillan and Robson were appointed to take steps for the purpose of organising a branch of the Dominion Alliance in this city, and also to see what could be done toward making the Scott Act applicable to this Province. When the committee is ready to report, another meeting will be held.

Looking for Supplies.

A private letter was received at Colville from Marcus, W. T., fifteen miles from old Fort Colville, under date of the 18th inst., stating that an engineer of the Canadian Pacific railroad was visiting that section. His object was to learn how much of supplies, viz.: hay, grain, etc., could be obtained next year from the upper end of the Colville valley. He stated that the company would probably build a steamer and run her from the little Dalles up the Columbia to the point nearest their line through the Rocky mountains.

Large yields of potatoes are now in order. The Free Press is authority for statement that Messrs. Quennell & Veale, of Cedar district, planted in the spring, on their farm, twenty pounds of seed potatoes of the Snowflake variety and a few days ago harvested 600 pounds of beautiful large potatoes as the produce of the twenty pounds.

The Bazaar.

The bazaar, which has been held at Humboldt Hall the past three nights, closed last evening, $300 having been realized. The principal article, a child's bed, was won by Mr. James Fell. The bazaar has been a very successful affair, and proved highly profitable as well as interesting.

The Methodist Church and Temperance.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

By order of the Victoria and New Westminster District of the Methodist Church, I have to request that you will kindly publish, for general information, the following report on temperance, adopted by the Toronto conference, re-written and adapted to provincial readers. Yours, &c.,

E. ROBSON.

REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

We would at this important period in the history of Methodism in Canada, reaffirm the sentiment, teaching and attitude of our branch of the Christian Church in reference to that question, which, considered in all its bearings, may be regarded as the question of the day, viz: Temperance. The sentiment of our church still is: "It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak." Her teaching is: "Neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor cuvetous, nor drunkards, nor revelers, nor extortioners shall inherit the Kingdom of God." "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him, that makest him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness." Her attitude is one of uncompromising hostility to all that can intoxicate, and to whatever agency," individual or organized, puts the temptation of the wine cup in the way of man or women, especially of the young and those who have become weak by indulgence. Methodism has, since the days of Wesley, regarded the liquor traffic as, practically a sin against God and a crime against humanity. As a church, we arraign and condemn the manufacture, sale, and use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. We consider it to be the duty of the state to prohibit, instead of licensing, any social or moral evil. We gratefully acknowledge the existence and philanthropic labors of the various organizations for the suppression of this great evil, and pray that each of them may have the direction of infinite wisdom and the benediction of boundless grace. We would especially mention the "Women's Christian Temperance Union," which by its self-denying labors has done so much to reclaim the drunkard, restore to him his happiness, and lead lost souls to the Savior. To sum up: (1) We regard the liquor traffic as antagonistic to, and destructive of the best interests, material, social and moral, of our country. (2) We believe prohibition to be the true remedy for this evil. (3) We consider the prevailing sentiment, and the extraordinary efforts now being put forth by the people, irrespective of creed, sex or party, as presenting convincing evidence that the proper time for enacting a prohibitory measure has come, and believing the "Canada Temperance Act" to be the best available means of accomplishing this object, we, the ministerial and lay members of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church, do pledge ourselves heartily to unite in every lawful effort to pass and enforce this measure. (4) We would suggest more systematic church work in the cause of temperance, by the frequent and earnest presentation of the subject from the pulpit and the circulation of temperance literature and total abstinence pledges in the congregations, Sunday schools, and homes of our people. (5) We strongly recommend the use of unfermented wine at the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, in all our congregations.

LARGE NUMBER OF ENTRIES.

The Display in all Classes up to Former Years.

FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The British Columbia Agricularal Association is holding its exhibition for the year 1884 in Beacon Hill Park. Notwithstanding the over-zealous conduct of some of our citizens in endeavoring to restrain the society from building, thanks to the efforts of Mr. S. Burris, the architect, the contractors, and the gang of laborers they had at work, everything was almost ready in time to receive the goods intended for exhibition.

The attendance this afternoon was large, notwithstanding the threatening character of the weather.

The following is a list of the Exhibitors were charged the following entrance fee: For cattle, sheep, horses and pigs on amount of prizes, 15 per cent.; for silver medal, $1; agricultural implements, 50 cents; field produce, 50 cents; dairy produce, 50 cents; fruits, 50 cents; vegetables, 50 cents; entrance band contest, 10 per cent; Special and other entries, 50 cents, except for ladies and misses, 25 cents. Trials of speed, 15 per cent. on amount of purse offered.

OPENING DAY.

At two o'clock this afternoon the exhibition of the British Columbia Agricultural Association was formally opened to the public by the Hon. William Smithe, Premier of the Province. The building which was hastily constructed on the grounds of the association, is well adapted for the purpose, and was creditably built, considering the short time workmen have been engaged upon it. Last evening exhibitors commenced taking their articles into the building and by this morning a considerable amount had been placed into position. This morning the judges were engaged in examining the exhibits and awarding premiums.

THE BUILDING IS ARRANGED

So as to accommodate and display everything to its best advantage. On the main floor are to be seen heavy articles, such as the larger variety of musical instruments, carriages, hardware, and serials where they are in large quantities while the gallery is devoted to the display of more delicate objects.

THE FARMERS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Have demonstrated very clearly the fact that their products cannot be excelled in any section of the continent. Their display of grain consisting of fall and spring wheat, white and black oats, rye, tares, barley, while different varieties of peas and vegetables are very fine. Among the vegetables were some choice potatoes of various varieties, also marigolds of the largest imaginable sizes.

It was difficult this morning to obtain the

NAMES OF THE EXHIBITORS

Of grain and vegetables, as well as many other articles in the main building, owing to their having no names attached. The following displays were noticed, their owners' names having been placed

AMONG THE EXHIBITS:

From the British Columbia Soap Works. This is very conspicuous, being near the front entrance of the building and is a neat and creditable display.

J. C. Cook exhibits a sample of his plaster work.

Miss Withrow has placed on exhibition a collection of fine chinaware, a beautiful hand painted screen and a handsome portrait from life.

There are two remarkably good pencil drawings by Jas. Reid.

Joseph Simmons displays a number of attractive picture frames, etc.

Frederick Forris has a creditable display of saddles and harness.

The Belmont Boot and Shoe Manufactury have a large collection of their goods placed in a very attractive manner.

The Victoria Match Factory display some of their blocks of matches.

A fine display of musical instruments is made by Messrs. Bagnell & Co., they exhibit covering considerable space.

J. Sell has on exhibition quite a variety of furniture.

The marble works of Geo. Rudge is well represented, and attracts much attention.

M. W. Waitt & Co. display pianos and organs, many of the best makes being represented.

The floral department is not so well represented as it should have been, considering the vast quantity of beautiful flowers to be obtained in British Columbia.

S. L. Kelly & Son have an exhibition of a number of stoves and ranges.

Burns & Co. display several modern and improved agricultural implements.

Some fine carriages manufactured by W. Grimm, are an attractive feature.

McKenzie & Meston, carriage makers, of Victoria, have on exhibition several neat buggies of their own make.

Thos. Fletcher, Victoria, exhibits sewing and knitting machines.

W. F. Adams also exhibits sewing machines.

A fine display of vegetables by Thos. Tugwell, from Sea View Farm, Sooke, is made in the gallery.

The display made by Mr. Dobson, the naturalist, is attractive.

Spencer & Hastings, photographers, have a fine exhibit of pictures, the quality being very good indeed.

Kurtz & Co., manufacturers of cigars, made a showing; their exhibits being in large glass cases.

One of the most elaborate displays in the gallery is that of David Spencer, of the White House, consisting of millinery goods, carpets, silks, etc. He occupies considerable space; his display is of a most attractive nature.

M. W. Waitt & Co. display some beautiful Christmas, birthday and other cards.

A good display of bottled malt liquors is made by Leaky, brewer.

The Saanich mills of Brackman & Ker, have several sacks of oat meal on exhibition.

Adams & Milne, Craigflower, also display some oat meal.

The Pioneer Steam Coffee and Spice Works of Victoria make a good display in their line.

An extensive display of oil is made by the Skidgate Oil Co.

An interesting exhibit of ore from the Sooke Iron mine is made by Frank Richards.

Hugh Caldwell displays several varieties of horse shoes, consisting of racing plates, hunting, trotting, interfering and other varieties. The collection is a good one.

The above list embraces but a portion of the many articles, together with the exhibitors, that are to be seen in the building, but as was previously stated, a large number of exhibits had nothing by which their owner's name could be ascertained, hence it was impossible this morning to give them.

There are some fine paintings displayed, many of them, by ladies of Victoria, but their names, as a rule, could not be ascertained at the time the TIMES's report was made.

STOCK AND IMPLEMENTS.

In the grounds, there is a very fair display of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, and a large quantity of wagons, buggies, and agricultural implements. The principal exhibitors of shorthorns are, Dr. Tolmie, Messrs. H. Henly, J. D. Pemberton, J. Fell, W. White, and J. Richardson. Some of the animals exhibited make a very good showing.

There are eighteen entries for graded stock, Messrs. Henly, Smith, and King showing the greater number.

Mr. E. S. Veddar, of Chilliwhack, is the only exhibitor of Ayrshires.

The show of roadsters is very good. Some of the young stallions exhibited would make a good showing at any exhibition. There are thirty-three entries. Messrs. R. A. Purvis and Cameron Bros., show a large number of fine animals.

There are twenty-eight entries for general purpose horses, of which Mr. W. Turgoose shows nearly half.

Messrs. H. King, Goodacre & Dooley, and J. Shopland are the principal exhibitors of Leicester sheep. In the South Down class there are sixteen entries, Messrs. J. Porter, H. Smith, J. Shopland and A. Peatt contributing the greater number.

Berkshire is the only breed of pigs represented at the show. Mr. Joseph Gosnell shows 13 in this class, Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Bryant also show some fine animals. Mr. W. Thompson shows one very large fat hog.

The show of poultry is not large. Mr. George Ferrin is the principal exhibitor of hens, showing eight different coops. Some geese belonging to Mr. Wm. Turgoose attracted much attention from poultry fanciers. A box, containing seven little guinea pigs, was the delight of the boys.

Fine displays of implements are made by Messrs. E. G. Prior and Burns & Co.

The names of the exhibitors of wagons, buggies, etc., could not be learned.

The Exhibition To-Night.

This evening the exhibition will remain open until 10 o'clock. The electric lights were being placed in position through the day, and to-night the building will be illuminated in a very brilliant manner, while similar lights on the outside will make it easy for visitors to view the stock and other exhibits on the grounds. The interior of the hall will undoubtedly form a very attractive appearance when illuminated by the electric lights.

Breach of Fire By-Law.

Tai Chong Yuen appeared in court today to answer to a charge of altering a building without the consent of the Fire Wardens. Mr. Walls, who appeared for the defence, stated that the building had formerly been a theatre and the work done lately had not been an alteration. The case was adjourned till Monday.

The W. H. O'Neil.

Pilot Thompson, who was on the ship W. H. O'Neil, which arrived in the Roads yesterday morning from Burrard Inlet, informed a representative of THE TIMES this morning that the statement made by a morning paper in reference to the O'Neil's nearly going on Race Rocks was decidedly incorrect. Mr. Thompson states that he brought the ship down, and makes the following report: The O'Neil left Burrard Inlet at 10:15 o'clock on the 24th inst., in tow of the tug Goliah; the tug left the ship at 11:30 p. m., on the same day, while bearing southeast, distant from Fort Angeles light, four miles. The ship then sailed into the Roads, but when within one mile of her anchorage the Alexander came along and gave her a lift. She dropped anchor in Royal Roads at 5:30 a. m., the following morning. The pilot states that the O'Neil was not near Race Roads, and that there was not the slightest danger of her going ashore.

EAGLE PASS AND THE COLUMBIA

Four Scows Constructed for Use on the Lakes.

Mr. Charles Short and Mr. Joseph Shaw arrived in this city by the Yosemite yesterday, having come from the Columbia river. They came through Eagle Pass, over the wagon road built by Mr. G. B. Wright, and which has just been completed. They went over last summer for the purpose of building four scows for Mr. Wright, which are used on the lakes in connection with the wagon road, there being one on each lake. They also built four boats, with a capacity of twenty-five persons each, which were used for transporting workmen across the lakes. This wagon road is

FORTY-SEVEN MILES LONG

And extends from Shuswap Lake to the Columbia river. The road was built for the purpose of gaining access to the construction of camps of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, whereby supplies may be taken in without much difficulty, and it was found necessary to build the scows as a cheaper and more direct route through the Pass. Heavy wagons may be taken on the scows with little difficulty and very quickly. The railroad will run parallel with the wagon road as a rule, though in one or more places it will run directly over it. This is the second season men have been engaged in the construction of the road, and it is now entirely finished, and is said to be a highly creditable piece of work. Mr. Short states that railroad building will not be difficult work, as about the only trouble that will be experienced is that of constructing the track around the Lakes. Speaking in reference to the general condition of the country in their neighborhood, Mr. Short remarked that the timber consisted mostly of Cedar and hemlock, and that the former, especially, was not very good. The country, particularly Eagle Pass, he says, is highly picturesque, and will be an attractive feature of the Canadian Pacific when that road is finished and travel is inaugurated. Mr. Short is an old ship builder, and constructed the scows in a most substantial and satisfactory manner.

THROUGH EAGLE PASS,

The Old Case.

The case against Quininiti, for the murder of the Chinaman about two years ago, was called to-day. After hearing some evidence the case was again adjourned.

Several of the battalions of Chinese troops which are expected to strike terror into the French, are armed with old-fashioned match locks, the barrels of which are so long that two men are required to manage one piece. One soldier allows the gun to rest upon his shoulder while the other sights and fires the formidable weapon. The spectacle of such troops in action would be one for the gods to weep over. Any foreign soldiers armed even with ordinary muzzle-loading guns could put to flight four times their number of these Chinese troops always, allowing that the Chinamen were brave, which is a very liberal allowance, judging from their recent conduct at the Min river forts. The wretched morale of the Chinese army is explained by one observer by the fact that the people have a proverb: "As you would not use good iron to make a nail, so you would not take a good man to make a soldier."

PHIL. BECK.

[George T. Bonfiea.]

Phil Beck never heard of the song that is sung
Of the yawning earth, when old Rome was young,
That vomits poisonous clouds so thick
That men, like flies, in the vemon stick.
Phil. Beck never heard of the prophecy dire,
This gulf will not close its mouth of fire,
Till a Roman youth, in his warlike gear,
Whose name never blemish or doubt came near,
Shall mount his steed, and over the side
To death, through the burning torture, ride.
Phil. Beck never heard of the Roman youth,
Who heeded no counsel, who asked for no ruth;
Who mounted his steed, took one look at the sky,
Waved country and kinsman and comrades good-bye,
And, gallant as bridegroom that looks on his bride,
Rode straight at the heart of the red, flaming tide.

Save only that blemish it knew not, nor fear,
What was there, Phil Beck, your bosom to cheer,
On that day of July, in the year eighty-four,
When over the bridge of Grand river you bore
Eight cars, with their young and their old overflowed,
And at the head of the train from St. Louis you rode?
No jeweled armor inclosed your breast;
On your head was no helmet or nodding crest;
No lips to applaud were, nor lovely eyes
That offered to valor a deathless prize,
But greasy, begrimed and black, you saw
What might well fill the heart of the bravest with awe—
The broken bridge; and your chance to leap,
And let the blind train on its journey keep.
Phil. Beck, all greasy, begrimed and black,
You turned from life, and stuck to the track
Of duty; and, shrilling your warning blast,
Down to the whirling river passed—
A hero as great, on your horse of iron,
As hallows the story of Rome or Sion.

Good News for the Deaf.

[St. Louis Republican.]

Leo Ehrlich, formerly secretary of the Humane society, has invented a device which will cause all the deaf people in the land to call him blessed. It consists of a contrivance which can be located in the handle of a cane, umbrella, parasol, or fan, and which, when placed to the ear of a deaf person, will cause him or her to hear any sound audible to the ear of a person who is not afflicted with deafness. The device which produces these effects is a tube about six inches long placed in the hollow of a Malacca cane. In the tube is a cone-shaped electric coil beginning at a small battery at the lower end of the tube and terminating in the "bird's bill." The vibration of this coil causes a multiplication of any sound or noise passing into the tube through several slits in the side of the cane. The cane and tube together weigh about six ounces, and the whole outfit looked like an ordinary Malacca walking stick with a silver head.

"How did I happen to invent it?" said Mr. Ehrlich, in reply to a question. "Well, it was the necessity of my own case. I was so deaf that it interfered with my social and business duties. I had been treated for my ailment in Paris, Vienna, and in this country and still I grew worse; so I set about to invent something that would cure me, and the result surprised me. I can now hear as well as you can and without the use of the cane. It is very simple. It is simply a multiplication of sound by electricity and the projection of a steady current of electricity against the weakened or paralyzed nerves and tissues of the ear. There is no degree of deafness in which a man cannot hear with this, even if the ear drum is destroyed; of course, it wont make a new ear drum, but it will make him hear. 'It is simply a multiplication table in the shape of sound.

"Here is one of the features of it. When a man is near-sighted he can get a pair of glasses, and no one takes any notice of it; but when a man is deaf he must either lug a trumpet around with him, much to the amusement of everybody, or hear nothing. This thing he carries in a cane or umbrella, and not only uses it without any one suspecting what it is, but hears well and is cured of all his deafness. It accomplishes what nothing else has ever done. E. C. Witherspoon, of the cotton exchange, who has not heard a dog bark for the past twenty-three years, can hear as well as anybody now. He was made deaf by the accidental discharge of a piece of artillery. His friends on 'change are astonished at the readiness with which he hears now. I have been at work at this over a year, and when I began everybody had to yell close to my ear; now I can hear the slightest whisper at a talking distance. I will send one to Mr. Edison, who is deaf."

A Wildcat's Prowess.

[Exchange.]

West Virginia sports are highly excited over a contest between a wildcat and bulldogs, three of which the cat killed in succession. The story is thus told:

"A fight for $500 a side between a wildcat weighing twenty-two pounds, and three bulldogs occurred at Coal Valley Saturday night. The cat was fastened by a chain to prevent its escape. The dog sprang toward the cat. The latter slipped aside and alighted on the dog's back. The dog rolled over and over, but was unable to dislodge the cat. Finally he secured a hold of the cat's leg. The cat backed the dog into a corner, and tore its leg loose. The dog caught the cat on the left shoulder; the cat twisted its head around, and, catching the dog by the back of the neck, began to tear the flesh. In two minutes the dog was dead. The round lasted eleven minutes. Another dog was introduced. The fight was fully as terrific as the first, but at the end of seven minutes the second dog was dead. A Charleston sport had with him a dog which he offered to wager $100 the cat couldn't kill in fifteen minutes. The cat, after the most furious fight of the day, killed the dog in thirteen minutes. One thousand persons were present."

Didn't Know Him.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

He was one of nature's noblemen, chock-full of "snake-bite" and hearty good-will toward mankind.

He had spoken to everybody he met on Whitehall street, and was now standing in front of a dummy belonging to a clothier.

"Hello!" he cried, slapping the figure on the back. "Ish fite glad t' shee yer, old pard."

For a moment he gazed good-humoredly at the placid face, as if expecting an answer, and, on getting none, he spoke again:

"Why, ole boy, Ish bin lookin' fer yer for hs' hour, an' yer needn't be sho stuck up 'cause yer little better dresh 'n Ime. I user know yer daddy, 'n he wush poor 'n me."

Still the dummy looked coldly at him.

"Yer ish as drunk sho can be," continued the spokesman, getting mad, "'n shince yer got so highity, ding fl don't wipe up shidewalk wit yer."

And he made a grab for the figure just in time to be caught in the loving embrace of a policeman.

The Little Peach Basket.

[New York Graphic.]

"Pa, what is it you've got?"

"That is a peach-basket, my daughter?"

"Ain't it cunning? Will you give it to me when you get through with it?"

"What do you want to do with it, my dear?"

"I want to use it for a thimble-case for my little doll."

An English clergyman, waxing sarcastic in the pulpit over the enormities of the age, exclaimed: "And these things, my brethren, are done in the so-called nineteenth century!"

"Quida," says of one of her heroines, that "when she smiled, her smile was soft and sudden, like the smile of one who hears fair tidings in the heart unspoken."
